Volume XIV

These are the students of Susquehannock High School, experiencing a small portion of life as they pass their days in classrooms and halls, in the gym and on the athletic field. They work together, and share the frantic times of examinations, deadlines, report cards, and the noontime cafeteria crush. Some win brief moments of glory in sports, dramatics, or music. All learn the rewards of cooperation.

It is the wish of the Calumet staff to mirror these ambitions and accomplishments, the daily life of SHS, in the pages of this yearbook. We hope you will be able to relive this past school year through our efforts.

Dedication

Although we were sad to see him leave, we, the Calumet Staff, were happy for him and his successful years as our principal. Through the office of principal he has been able and capable in providing the moral and scholastic leadership which is needed for our growth into responsible citizens.

The Calumet Staff of 1965 therefore dedicates this volume of the CALUMET to Mr. Ralph A. Bortner, whose endless patience and untiring efforts have made our school days more pleasant. May the dedication of this yearbook show in part the appreciation and respect to one who so richly deserves all the honor we can afford him.

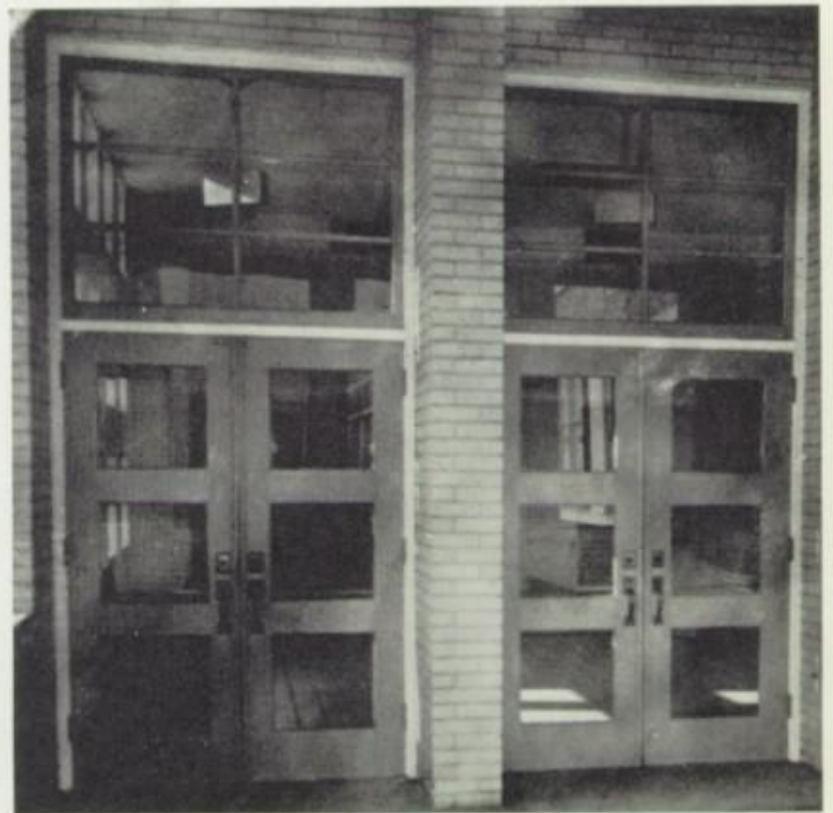

Mr. Bortner checks printing press.

Mr. Bortner receives gift from Pep Club.

Building

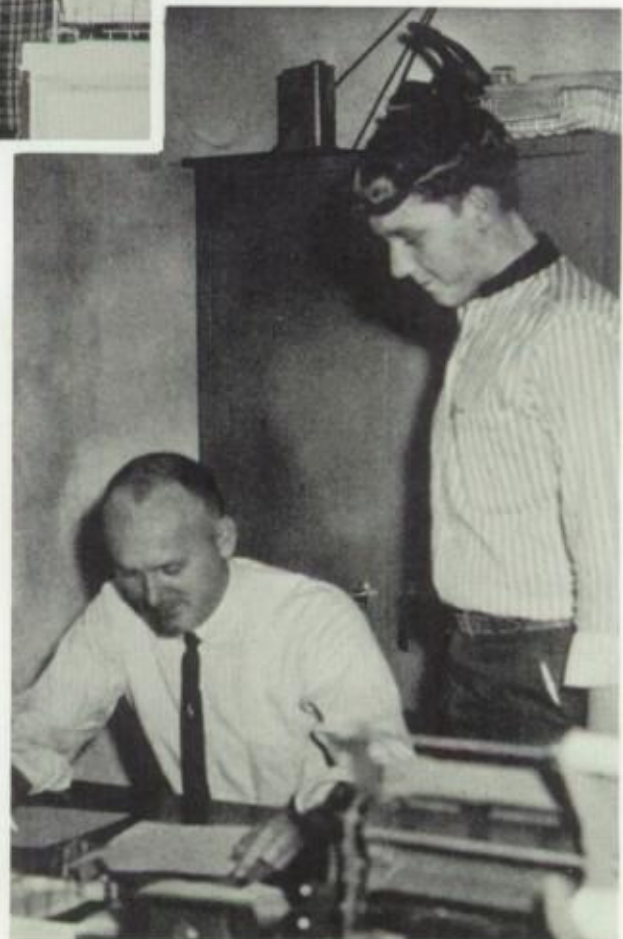

This is our school, where we have spent so many impressive days, working, playing, and learning together. This is the school where we have found inspiration, guidance, and a foundation for a better way of life.

Faculty and Students

The betterment of the school depends greatly upon the cooperation of the faculty and the student body.

Sports

Cheering the teams to victory, the kickoff of the football game, the center jump of the basketball game, the first spike of the volleyball game—all these and more provide an excellent opportunity to express school spirit and competitive sportsmanship.

Activities

The spice of school life is found in the various curricular and extra-curricular activities which are important to the students at Susquehannock.

Administration

Administrators . . .

To the Class of 1965,

The primary purpose of the school is to teach students to live and work in an evolving society.

The acquisition of self-control and a sense of responsibility, respect for the rights of others, intelligent and effective civic participation, realization of the necessity for law and order, and development of attitudes which make you worthy members of society participation in a democratic government. If you have failed to achieve an appreciation for these attitudes, our academic and vocational training will be of little value to ourselves and others.

We, the faculty and administration, want you to succeed in your future endeavors. Do your best in every phase of your work and no one will ask for more.

May these past years of learning be the firm foundation on which you will build your new life in this complex society of ours today.

Best Wishes,
Leroy E. Krebs
